In the News

A special SU couple

Ann Kardos '02 and Lee Morrisette '02 attribute countless experiences to Syracuse University. From meeting and dating as students, to camping across the country together after graduation, settling in Boston near a number of Syracuse friends, and even having a classmate officiate their wedding, the couple is grateful for the lasting connections made at SU. "Syracuse is in our blood; it's really the background of our lives," Kardos says. Read more.

Chancellor Syverud visits Boston

In October, about 150 Boston alumni, parents, and friends gathered at The Liberty Hotel for a reception with Chancellor Kent Syverud. Boston was among nine cities the Chancellor visited this fall to share his vision for Syracuse University and Fast Forward Syracuse, the University's new strategic initiative. In each city, guests had the opportunity to ask questions and give feedback. See photos and event highlights.

Feist joins advancement team

Syracuse University recently named Elizabeth Feist director of regional advancement for the Boston area. Feist joined the University in the fall of 2014 and looks forward to working with Syracuse alumni and friends in the region. Read more.
