Meet Co-President Samantha Lordi '07

The early years after graduation from Syracuse University gave Samantha Lordi '07 a variety of professional experiences in several states, but she couldn't make strong connections in any one place. Lordi attended a meeting for the SU Alumni Club of Boston shortly after moving to the area in 2012, and she's been involved ever since. In July, Lordi became co-president of the club, serving with Natasha Olejar '14, and she's thrilled about the opportunity to meet new people and represent her alma mater. Read more.

Meet Co-President Natasha Olejar '14

New Jersey native Natasha Olejar '14 moved to Boston a year ago, hardly knowing anyone, and looked to the SU Alumni Club of Boston to make connections. "I was so excited to get involved that I emailed the club a week after graduating," she says. A board spot opened up shortly after, and Olejar became community service chair. Now she takes on a bigger leadership role—serving as co-president with Samantha Lordi '07—and wants to continue hosting a variety of events while reaching a broader audience. Read more.

A warm SU welcome

On July 26, 2015, the Syracuse University Alumni Club of Boston held its annual New Student Send-Off. The newest class of Syracuse students and their families got to know some recent graduates from the Boston area, met fellow classmates, and received their first dose of Orange spirit!
